

trautmann®

I'm a Brazilian Art Director with a strong background in branding, packaging, and visual communication, currently based in Barcelona. With extensive experience working with global brands, I specialise in crafting distinctive visual identities and packaging that stand out in competitive markets. My work has spanned different cultures and industries, giving me a deep understanding of how to create compelling brand experiences that resonate internationally. I focus on delivering creative solutions that are not only visually striking but also strategically aligned with brand objectives. My expertise in storytelling, brand consistency, and design strategy ensures that every project I undertake adds meaningful and lasting value. While my English is at a basic level, I am fully accustomed to working with global brands and adapting to international markets. I am always eager to improve and evolve, ensuring that my creative vision translates effectively across different audiences. I am open to new opportunities in branding and packaging design, whether in-house or remote.

Let's connect and explore how we can create impactful work together!
